

Business Applications

How much do your license fees cost? It is highly likely that the data held in your legacy database is not covered by a license agreement. Your data is your own. However, it is also likely that you do pay to access this data by way of a 'bums on seat' charge of your front-end system. Support IT builds secure systems that allow you access to your database and all the information held within it. We can do this for a one-off fee so you will not incur any horrendous licence fees every time you wish to add another user. As this system is intranet-based, and as such is automatically available as soon as a machine is networked, it will also save time for your IT department. Support IT can also make these systems available securely on-line for reps in the field and teleworkers. Software developed by Support IT is designed to be maintenance free. This eliminates the need for costly dedicated IT staff. If you are a Small to Medium Enterprise (SME), Support IT can build you a system that matches your needs and your level of IT ability. The software will be designed that it can easily be upgraded as your customer-base and IT knowledge expands. For general advice about software development or to enquire further about the services we provide, please use the navigation buttons below or if you prefer follow the contact us link and discuss your needs.